VERSIDE HOMESTEAD ASSOCIATION

association of whose organization we gave unt a few days ago is now ready to dis f shares As it is with the exception the nd H mestead Association of that kind in this ation of that kind in this city it may be nough to state what are its purposes and anner in which it is proposed to conduct its ions The purposes of these Homestead nations are one and all speculative in the ur y sense of the word They are dependent e profits of their investments upon the natu dvance in the value of their lands, consequently upon the co-operation of many individuals and reholders—and the advance on values of all nding lands by reason of the expansion of ness and demand for room outside of built ness, the city The Riverside Homestead iation has a fraction over one hundred and y acres of land situated just south of lyn on the east side of the river the near ondary line being about one mile from the anding at East Portland The tract has a rth, and another strip along the Oregon and rnia railroad, half a mile in length, the two being connected near the middle by two of blocks (with a street between them) the forming a figure not unlike the letter H divided into 74 blocks, 200 feet square (with s running at right angles) and 30 fractional s, along the river front The shares number 00, worth $60 per share It will be seen that re thus represents nearly a lot with an undiinterest in the 80 fractional lots The 80 frac-shares are to be sold off at the proper time e benefit of the Association, shareholders ng in for the proceeds in proportion to the

and the Association shall determ to do it, the choice of lots and blocks ts put up at auction to the highest r the proceeds of such sales after deducting riginal price of shares or lots, to be divided ly among the whole number of shares If a person wants a particular lot or block willing to pay $100 or $200 premium (more s the case may be) he pays it and takes ot or block as his individual property the ium being divided among the whole number of shareholders It will be seen therefore that thing is co-operative and all interests are ing making a dollar for every other equal holder There is no chance for loss unless roperty by some chance should depreciate low the first actual cost Whether this is to happen in the case of this particular off-hand must be judged by each for himself considering the steady and unprecedented advance on real estate in this city and neighborhood year or two, it seems hardly possible for

to go back
The Riverside Association all proper precau-

in this latter case to another (and only one) assessment of $3 per share. Upon the ent of the shares in full with the assessments his proportion of all the profits accrued from

FRIDAY MORNING DECEMBER 2 1870

An Interesting Contest

Gen Schenck Chairman of the House Committee of Ways and Means was a candidate for re election to Congress from the Third district of Ohio in the late election in that State, but by the action of some Democratic Judges of election at the instigation of the notorious Vallandigham the votes of several hundred maimed soldiers residing at the Soldiers Home, near Dayton, were thrown out and Schenck s opponent L D Campbell was declared elected by a majority of nine three Gen Schenck will do nothing in his own behalf as he does not care to obtain the seat but the Republican committee in the connection comprising the Third Congressional District, have taken hold of the matter and are determined to test in the House the right of the soldier haters to reject the votes of men who have been maimed in fighting for their country

The ground on which Vallandigham and the other backers of Campbell rejected these votes were briefly these A National Asylum for disabled soldiers is established near the city of Dayton Until last spring these soldiers had voted without question But at that time a contest for a county office arose, and a question was made upon their right to vote A decision was given in favor of the candidate who had received the votes of the soldiers but the Court decided the case on other grounds than that of the right of the soldiers to vote It took occasion however, to say that the soldiers vote was illegal because the Asylum was situated on land ceded by the State of Ohio to the United States, and that persons residing thereon were out of the jurisdiction of the State of Ohio and therefore could not lawfully vote at any election held under the authority of the State But the act of the Legislature of Ohio by which the cession was made provided that it should be made on condition that the inmates of the Asylum should not be deprived of the right to vote in any election At this point we quote a correspondent of the New York Tribune

The Supreme Court took the ground that these conditions were repugnant to the Constitution of the United States, and that therefore the grant took effect stripped of its conditions The Supreme Court, however, overlooked the fact that the State of Ohio had refused to cede the jurisdiction except under these stipulations, and if they were repugnant to the Constitution no grant was made, ...

The New York Herald says that the decision is "the absurdest it has heard since the time of Dogberry," And the Boston Advertiser presents the case as made up by those who propose to push the contest, as follows. "First, the State of Ohio yielded jurisdiction over the territory of the Asylum on the express condition that the right of the soldiers to vote should not be impaired Second, if the right is not recognized the grant by the State fails, and the jurisdiction must have of necessity already reverted to the State Third, the title to the Asylum granted by the State is not vested in the United States, but in a corporation and there is therefore no conferring jurisdiction of the United States on which to base exclusion from the polls In the course of the discussion the following precedent has been brought up, which opens the way for a right decision General Schenck's competitor, Campbell, was elected, in his Whig days, by a majority of nineteen over Vallandigham, his present sponge-holder Vallandigham, appealing to a Democratic Congress, ousted Campbell on the ground that the latter had received a few votes from colored men Campbell claimed that these colored men were nearer white than black, and there have been repeated decisions by Democratic and Whig Judges of the Supreme Court of that State that in considering the right of colored men to vote, the votes should be received in cases where the man had a predominance of white blood That had been the practice in the State all along, but Congress overruled the decision of the court, and decided, that the least tint of African blood should cause the rejection of the vote "

So Vallandigham, with the aid of a Democratic Congress, threw Campbell out, notwithstanding a decision in Campbell's favor by the Supreme Court of Ohio This will be an excellent precedent in deciding the case between Campbell and Schenck Since it became known that this matter will be tested in Congress, it has assumed an aspect of National importance, and much interest is manifested in it by the press of the country

Schenck probably will get the seat, or if he does not want it, it will be declared vacant and Campbell can go home, to ruminate on his bad luck in trying to disfranchise 348 maimed soldiers who prefer to vote for men who sustained them while fighting for their country

There is a nice state of affairs in California The last Legislature, in order to give the Mercantile Library of San Francisco a benefit, legalized lottery gambling So eminently respectable was the affair that all classes participated in it On the day the drawing came off a chapter of the bible was read in the pavilion as a pious introduction to the exercises San Francisco went "on a drunk for a week so the telegraph said and the whole community was given up to legalized gambling This highly respectable example is now bearing its fruit Lotteries are springing up all over the State Public gambling is becoming a leading and absorbing pursuit. And what makes the matter highly interesting is the decision of the lawyers that there is no longer any law to restrain or punish the vice The Legislature repealed the penalties, as a favor to the Mercantile Library lottery, and all who are so disposed can now get up gambling schemes at their own sweet will This no doubt will be the principal occupation of California till another Legislature revives the law against lottery gambling In the meantime public morals in that State are in a very promising way

According to the testimony of the "State organ" the Legislature which recently sat at Salem was a remarkably worthy body. That paper has by implication denounced its members as "fools and rascals" it has accused them of being corrupt and yielding to corruption, and at the close of one of its articles of censure and condemnation it declares it was no wonder the small pox broke out in such a body!

New York Democratic papers are pronouncing for Hoffman for President and Tweed for Governor of that State No doubt this will be the programme Oregon Democrats may as well prepare to accept Hoffman as their Presidential candidate

Maine cannot be called a "progressive State The census returns show a population of 628,713—a gain of only 119 in ten years The cause has in the steady stream of emigration from that State to the West

The British Possessions

In a late speech by Senator Thurman of Ohio, he stated that our British neighbors had settled with Great Britain by the payment of half a million of dollars in gold, and that the last British question is one which is beyond and above party politics, and is entitled to serious consideration The well known caution and conservatism of Senator Trumbull in all his public statements seem to give additional importance to the expression of his opinion, as he said

It is for the mutual advantage of the United States and Great Britain that they should be under one government That they want to sell their immense tracts of land and we want to be rid of their market and they of ours We want to be rid of all these officials stretched along the dividing line across the continent these Custom House officers and so on and we want free and uninterrupted intercourse from the northwestern part of the continent and from the city to the ocean That is the desideratum of the Northwest The natural outlet of these great lakes and of this part of the Union is through the St Lawrence Give us possession of that and it will be an easy matter to open a communication that will soon bring this outer harbor of Chicago the vessels from all the nations of the world

It is as much for the interest of the inhabitants of those colonies to be under our government as it is for us to have them There was a time when we could not expect it. While slavery existed in this country we could not expect them to join their fortunes with ours It has been their boast for years that a slave could not breathe their air But now, slavery is removed We have a free government We have a government where the people rule Let them come in and take part with us, and our legislation shall be so shaped in my judgment as to make it for their interest to unite their destinies with ours And then when this line of communication shall be opened the ocean that city situated at the head of these great waters surrounded by a country of the greatest fertility and of vast extent midway of the continent, a country inhabited by an intelligent and thrifty and free people—the day is not distant when it would be the great city of the world

Gen Butler recently delivered a speech at Lowell Massachusetts, in which he referred to our present difficulties with England, and in answer to a question as to the nature of the settlement he would propose and the way of bringing it about he said

A special Ambassador Extraordinary should be immediately sent to London and instructed to put the case to Earl Granville somewhat in this way

We have waited long enough for a settlement of these claims my Lord and we propose to wait no longer They are a constant source of irritation between our people and yours, and between our Government and yours, and no good can come of longer delay Besides, it has become a question of political policy with us at home, and we are determined to have a settlement at once—amicably, if possible, but if this is not possible, then by other means As between our Government and yours, these claims are very heavy. The damage done to our commerce by your pirates was enormous and the prolongation of the war caused by your course was an incalculable injury to us No amount of money which you are able to pay would make full reparation for the wrong you did us Still, as between our Government and our own citizens these claims are not large Most of our ship owners who lost vessels were insured We would not have to pay them nor the insurance companies who were compensated for their losses by the war risks they charged in their premiums Nor would it be practicable to return to ship owners the extra premiums they paid, nor make good to the actual losers the great loss sustained by our commerce in a general way by the destruction of our ocean carrying trade We should only have to pay our citizens who actually lost ships or merchandise, and were not insured This fact, however, does not at all lessen the magnitude of the claim we have as a nation against Great Britain, but it enables us to offer you liberal terms of settlement. Now, these are the terms we offer you We will assume the claims and settle with our own people, and we will take from you all your provinces north of us. They are only a burden to you, and must sooner or later gravitate to us We want them now to get rid of the expense and annoyance of Custom Houses on a frontier line of 4 000 miles, and to settle the troubles about the fisheries We do not propose however, that you should barter them away, or abandon them in any dishonorable manner We will have a plebiscitum, and we will agree to take only such provinces as shall freely elect to join the United States But the vote must be taken by provinces, for we will have nothing to do with your Dominion, which you put up to make an unfriendly power on our northern border when you thought we should have a powerful enemy at the South in the Successful Confederate States When the vote is taken, which must be done without the influence of your Government agents we will give you a receipt in full of all claims we have against you, and take only such provinces as vote Aye upon the question This we consider a very liberal offer on our part, and it is our ultimatum If you do not accept it, we propose to fight.

Such a course on the part of the Administration, Gen Butler is confident, would electrify the whole country, and bring such a powerful public sentiment to the support of the President that his re-election would be sure to follow England he thinks, would come to our terms, at once when she found we were in earnest and determined to enforce them There would be no war for England dare not go to war with any first class power The Provinces would vote to join us, or if only one or two of them should we should have got in the entering wedge the Dominion would be split in pieces, and the other provinces would be sure to come to us in a year or two With a few million ons we could pay the people whose property was actually destroyed by the British pirates and we would more than get it back in a year by our increased revenue from our enlarged domain and increased commerce

It is understood that Gen Butler has already urged these views upon the Administration

Day by day the Herald continues to assert that the party is perfectly certain to elect the President in 1872 A few other papers of its class assert the same thing But none of the more sagacious and candid journals of the party make such affirmations In the elections of this year the Republicans have succeeded as well on the whole as they could have hoped and have carried the new Congress by a great majority The situation is nothing like so favorable for the Democratic party as it was befor the last Presidential election Then that party had carried New York Pennsylvania, New Jersey Ohio, and other important States and had much reason to suppose that they would achieve a national triumph But they were disastrously beaten They have now neither Pennsylvania Ohio nor New Jersey and the Republican columns which was badly broken in 1867 is now somewhere seriously weakened or impaired In 1872 Grant will carry every State with two or three possible exceptions that he carried in 1868 and will carry some that he did not carry then including Oregon The Herald has of late been profuse with its predictions We here put our prediction on record and ask the Herald to mark it That paper although it affirms so confidently that its party will succeed would be too prudent to make any investment on that supposition

General Sherman's annual report which has been printed shows that the present strength of the army is as follows Ten cavalry regiments, with 1804 men Five artillery regiments 4,205 men twenty five infantry regiments 14 496 men Connected with the Ordnance Department and other branches of the military service with available recruits at depots etc, are a sufficient number to carry the total up to 34 870 In all branches of the military service there are 2 488 commissioned officers Before January 1 1871 this number must be reduced to 2 277 and the number of enlisted men must be reduced to 30 000 before July 1 1871

The newspapers of Germany are standing up for the right of their country to take and hold enough territory from France to make Germany secure from future invasions by the French The Germans are strong in this position for two reasons They have both the advantage of possession and of unassailable French precedents for their right of conquest How can the French escape the force of both these considerations

Democracy Pure and Simple

[From the Yuba, Miss Gazette]

Some of the Radical papers are trying to make bigger fools of themselves than nature has made them—and she has been quite lavish of her favors in that line They are cutting up dreadfully because the Southern papers are mourning for Gen Lee, and say that the cities towns, people and papers who mourn for Lee are not the same that grieved for the death of Lincoln, and that it is not for Lee, the soldier, that they show such signs of sorrow They are mighty right about that It is a class who mourn for Lee, as different from Lincoln mourners as heaven is from hell, and we can say so to them, if it will afford them any comfort that if every Radical in the United States were dead as Lincoln is and as doubly damned as most of them ought to be we would not feel a millionth part the grief we did when the first dispatch announced that Robert E Lee was stricken with paralysis And further we will tell them that as much as we loved Gen Lee as an honored Christian gentleman and patriotic citizen it is as the leader of the noble Confederate braves that we so much grieve his death—leader of the bravest band of patriots that ever fought for constitutional government and civil liberty or that was ever conquered by hired Hessians or Yankee thieves Yes we grieve for the lost cause and have ever since the sad intelligence first flashed along the wires that Lee had laid down his arms at Appomattox and the more we have felt of Radical tyranny the more we have regretted it We expect to regret it as long as we live and damned be the Southern renegade and traitor who does not

Napoleon s "History of the War"

The New York Herald has these remarks on the Bonaparte pamphlet

The contents of the pamphlet are quite important and interesting in a Bonaparte point of view The words will stand forth to posterity as the best defence which French imperialism can make under the circumstances want of exact preparation for such a serious terrible event as the opening of a war with united Germany and an unreserved acceptance of the consequence of its failure The writer appears as a "prophet of the past" He knows now of the vast effective force of Prussia He is aware that Austria and Italy had not sufficiently pacified Prussia by a multiplication of treaties with France In the French legislature the author expresses himself thus "I feel grateful that the terrible drama which is now being enacted may serve as a lesson for the future and that our country may rise again from the catastrophe which now overwhelms her" The words of this French legislator convey a sentiment of resignation penitence and religious charity blended in such a Christian like shape that the most beneficial effects may even yet be exacted from its cultivation and practice by their royal exile The ex Emperor of France enjoys every brilliant reputation as a pamphleteer and we have no doubt but the History of the War as we term it will have a very extensive sale

The Boston Advertiser thinks that the neutrality of the British Cabinet decision hinders the settlement of the Alabama question after it was announced that any future negotiations must be begun by us in due to the new aspect of affairs in Europe It says

There may be no connection between this movement and that of Russia in the East but the coincidence is striking It requires no special sagacity to see that the juncture in which England should be prudently desirous to conciliate the friendship of America Though delay in obtaining what is substantially just between Russia and America is well known to Europe and though it would not be all that is to us any part in a struggle for the balance of power it would never the less be essential disadvantage to England when coupled with the opposite sentiments which he necessarily cherish to each other The problem for England, therefore is to correct this inequality and re establish herself in the good graces of that nation which seems likely to be the only neutral among the great powers of the world Hence as it appears to us, the undue anxiety of England to realize an object which has heretofore been defeated only by her own obstinacy She can sacrifice her pride to her interests but not to justice

SUNDAY MORNING, DECEMBER 2, 1870.

Yesterday, a man who says he is from Salem, arrived in this city intent upon some little business on his own account. He had heard about the railroad, or if he had he didn't believe there was such a thing; the reals he was afraid, so he came down in the good old fashioned way, with "hosses and waggin." He arrived with the right sweet sullage, anyhow, and expressed bold just which his hosser and kinder waggin stood around, to see the sights. Piling a few pap around for them before his horses, for 'em to eat while he was away, and make 'em contented like, he started on a spot, he carefully surveyed the surrounding, or in the vernacular he "sized" it, so that he might be sure to find it again, and by that means also find his "critters" at night. Our hero thus scooted for an hour or two, and was immensely tickled with what he saw, but soon can't last always; the most extraordinary tramp must end. Our fellow friend began to think it time to find his team and get to business, and he started began to retrace his "phrase" to the spot at the place where he had left his team, coming at the place where he had left his team, was horrified to find that it had been stolen, and he was all excited when he arrive at the place. He had been left of perlice and robbers, and just find anything, and so he kept on Front street looking for a perlice and at the same time keeping a sharp lookout for his hoss and waggin. He didn't find a perlice, but he did find a man who, for the promise of a dollar, agreed to assist him. Down the street came the team, the Salem chap describing it to others and waggin. Shortly the Portland man says, "See here, my friend, by your description that must be your team," pointing to a "hoss" contentedly feeding at a pile of hay by the street side. Says the Salem man, after a careful survey of the critters and surrounding premises "By gosh, stranger, that's a fact; an' I'll be derned if this very horses I left 'em fernist I know'd it. Shouldn't be sure of it hadn't I changed to 'em." Says the Portland man, "You owe me five dollars, you know, and it's just a fact, stranger," says the Salem chap; "if ain't got but a dollar 'n a half to me, an' I'm hard up." "All right, said Portland; "I don't want anything with the happiest countenance ever seen on the streets the Salem chap began to rig up his team to get onten this yer derned sitty.

THE DAY OF WINTER.—December was ushered in with a day of glorious sunshine and delightful and bracing. At seven o'clock A. M. the mercury stood at 36 degrees, and at 12 M. at 52, with barometrical indications of 29.90. There are many trees and shrubs still with full exposure to the weather whose leaves have not fallen; and late flowers, with only the protection of a glass room, are still in bloom. Grass is green, and the general dress of Nature is that of early spring in the Eastern States. Such a glorious opening of winter is seldom, if ever, known east of the Pacific slope. Credit is due to Mr. Reed, Librarian of the City Library, for several bits of information relative to the weather during the month just closed. There were in November only seven days—the 3d, 4th, 7th, 8th, 10th, 25th and 26th—on which days rain fell almost continuously through daylight. The total rainfall is 6.05 inches. There were twenty-six days—including cloudy days—when clouds were visible, and there was not a cloud was to be seen. Of cloudy days without rain there were a considerable number in which the sun shone a part of the time, but not more than one or two that were entirely clear. The prevailing winds were N. and N. W.—only three or four times from the southwest. The lowest range of the thermometer was 36° at 7 A. M. on the 6th; the highest was 62° at 2 P. M. on the 12th. The mean temperature for the month was 48°. The highest barometer was 30.6 at 9 P. M. on the 28th, and the lowest 29.73 at 2 P. M. on the 5th, and at 9 P. M. on the 28th. The thermometrical range was from 36° the lowest, 77° the highest, 41° the mean.

Of late we have seen frequent notices in California papers, of the detection of counterfeit coin. This coin is that which has been made by the operator making in the ordinary way, whatever value he may wish, from the coin. In some of the cases twenty dollar pieces had been lost, each, as ten dollars, and were, consequently, worth only eighteen dollars. In other cases fifty cents or a dollar had been taken. The counterfeiting coin has become so common that bankers and dealers have been compelled to resort to weighing, or otherwise testing the coin received, at the loss of value of a dollar, of course, upon the man in whose hands it is found. It is said that great numbers of these are in circulation, and it would be well for us to keep a sharp look-out for the counterfeit lest we may get taken in.

HORSES SOLD.—Whoever paid particular attention to the horses exhibited at the late fair will remember a very large and handsome stallion, which everybody took to be a horse. He was particularly remarkable for his full legs with long bushy hair at the fetlocks. The horse belonged to Col. L. B. Hamilton, and was recently from Clyde, Scotland. He is now six years old, stands sixteen hands high, and weighs nineteen hundred pounds. Mr. Martin has just sold him to Mr. Hughes, of Starr's Point, Benton county, the handsome price of $3,000. He departed with him, per steamer yesterday, for home.

THE RAILWAY.—We learn from a passenger who came on the afternoon train yesterday, that the people of Albany are making great preparations for celebrating the completion of the railroad to that point, an event expected to occur on the 15th inst.

Mr. Keith, Deputy U. S. Collector, has been the guest of Joseph Hunt at Corvallis, on a visitation of the Internal Revenue department.

Fine weather stare at all points up the valley at present.

Daily rail and stage is now made from Albany and back in one day.

OPERA HOUSE.—There was but a thin house last evening, to witness the "Swapping." The play was, however, well done in style, with but very little to criticise. Miss Mr. Vinson as Mr. Bonasus was quite happy, and Mr. Bates' Alexander was fine. Mrs. Bates played Victorine with spirit, and Ellerton was comic enough for any. The other characters were also well sustained, and the audience frequently testified their approval of the entire piece. "Victorine" will be played again at the Saturday matinee. Saturday evening the great nautical drama of "Captain Kidd" will be produced.

FOR PORTLAND.—The steamship Active sailed from San Francisco, for Portland, yesterday. She has on board the following passengers: Edward N. Deady, H. Sax, C. A. Burchardt, Mrs. G. A. Henderson and two children, Miss B. S. Blithe, J. G. Wilson and mother, Mrs. H. Marston, Wm. Ross, R. Kimball, F. L. Tideton, G. A. Hall and family, Miss H. M. Morrison, T. J. Hood, A. Marckee, Miss M. Marckee, E. Mix, J. Alcares and two children, Mrs. Mix, Shea and two children.

A SCORCHER.—A man came down on yesterday morning's train in a beautiful state of intoxication. On the way down, and at East Portland, while crossing the ferry boat at this city, he rendered himself by frequently bawling for "more," much to the annoyance of everybody. He had scarcely stepped ashore, with a determination that he suspected there was some here, when he was suddenly put in the city jail. He will probably be released this morning.

NOTICE FOR MANSLAUGHTER.—We find in the Statesman, of the 24th ult., the sentence passed upon Thomas Wetbored for manslaughter, five years in the penitentiary. Wetbored killed a man recently from Clyde, some eight or ten years ago, well known here, being then a saloon keeper. He was tried for murder, but the jury found him guilty of manslaughter.

THE Oregonian.—The poetical sketch in Oregonian, descriptive of a game of euchre entitled "Chinese"—by Brett Harte, of the Enterprise, and "Report of the Police Commissioners," a fancy sketch by the playful Associate, Cooper.

ABOUT TO LOAD.—The bark Lucy Thompson was taken in tow yesterday afternoon by the steamer Fearless for the Columbia river. She is now at Kalama, Wash. Territory, and is about to load with lumber for San Francisco.

ACCIDENT TO JUDGE STRONG.—A few days since Judge Strong met with an accident by which the small bone of his leg was fractured, and he has not since been able to get about except by the aid of a crutch. Wednesday evening while descending the stairway from his office, he was about to fall when a person near caught hold of his clothing so as to save him from falling; but in the act the Judge was suddenly twisted around in such manner that he received a severe sprain of the back, from the effects of which he is now confined closely to his room, not being able to be moved even to his home.

HUGE AND FEROCIOUS-LOOKING.—Mr. William Russell has left at our office some fragments of the tusks of a wild hog which he lately killed in the Coast Range, near the head of Yamhill river. The entire length of the tusks before broken was fourteen inches. They are the most formidable and ferocious looking weapons of the kind we ever saw. Mr. Russell says the hog from which they were taken was the last of a band which had been running wild in the mountains for fourteen years. When killed, he weighed four hundred pounds—a real monster.

DEATH OF AN OLD SEA CAPTAIN.—The papers of San Francisco chronicle the death on the 20th ult., in San Francisco, of heart disease, of Capt. Joseph Williams, formerly well known here. He was for some time Captain of the bark San Meritt; afterward was on the steamships Active and Montana.

On motion, it was resolved that we celebrate the event of the coming of the first passenger train to the city.

On motion a committee of two, consisting of Hill and Arnold, was appointed to confer with Mr. Holladay and ascertain the day the cars will arrive.

On motion a committee of three, consisting of Bradwohl, Comley and Burkall, was appointed to arrange programme.

On motion a committee of three, consisting of Hill, Comley and Myer, was appointed to procure a flag, to be presented to the President for the use of the locomotive Albany.

THE GREAT
BLOOD PURIFIER.

A History of the McGarrahan Claim

From the New York Herald of the 15th November we take the following, thus by article

The enemies of the administration seem well made as outside of the republican party but especially those inside of it have been making most malicious efforts to defame President Grant in connection with the now celebrated McGarrahan case. There never was a more miserable pretext for abusing a public officer. President Grant acted in that matter within the exact line of his duty. The question was one of which the House of Representatives had assumed jurisdiction and when the President learned that Secretary Cox designed deciding it on his own responsibility regardless of Congress or of the courts, he simply warned him not to interfere with it but to leave the matter where it was in the hands of the House of Representatives and its Judiciary Committee.

The case itself is a remarkable one. Some twenty years ago and more McGarrahan then a merchant in San Francisco purchased a claim which one Gomez a Mexican had to a three league tract of wild land in California. This claim had been presented to and rejected by the United States Commissioners who were appointed to examine and adjudicate private land claims in that State. It was rejected not because of any apparent defect in the grant itself but because of want of occupancy. Subsequently in the famous Fremont case the decision was made by the Supreme Court that want of occupancy was no bar in law to the efficacy of a Mexican grant. Thereupon Gomez' case was presented to the United States District Court in California the decision of the Commissioners was reversed and the right of the claimant decreed.

In that stage of the case McGarrahan became the purchaser of the claim paying for it a price equivalent to its apparent value for the land embraced in the grant was of little worth for agricultural or pastoral purposes and no minerals had been discovered on it. But very soon afterwards and before McGarrahan could have it surveyed and patented it was found to contain rich and extensive deposits of cinnabar. The miners who made the discovery squatted upon the land and a quicksilver mining company, now known as the New Idria Company, was formed which took possession of and now works these mines, which are not very inferior in value to the New Almaden quicksilver mines. Under the general mining law passed by Congress a few years ago each miner has a pre-emption right to a certain space of mineral land and the members and employes of the New Idria Company each claiming the space allowed over with their pre-emption claims the whole mineral bearing surface of McGarrahan's grant.

As the law allowed to the government or to a claimant a term of five years to take an appeal from the decision of the District Court to the Supreme Court of the United States the decree granting the patent to McGarrahan was [illegible] one of the most remarkable [illegible] involving the integrity [illegible] attorneys, clerks of courts, attorney generals and other persons high in office, and in the course of which it appeared pretty conclusively that Gomez' original grant was a fraud, that the papers [illegible] were forged and the evidences [illegible] made away with. The Supreme Court therefore decided against McGarrahan and he, asserting that the Supreme Court had no legal jurisdiction of the matter because of the expiration of the time when the appeal should have been taken, appealed to Congress for relief, and his petition was referred to the Judiciary Committee in the House of Representatives. That committee heard most elaborate arguments on the subject last session but has not yet made any final report or been discharged from its consideration.

This is the condition of the case at the present moment, and was last August when Secretary Cox proposed to cut the Gordian legal knot by issuing a patent for the property to the New Idria Company. It was that act of usurpation which the President prohibited the Secretary of the Interior from committing, and hence all this tempest in a teapot. As to the claim to the Panoche Grande rancho—the title by which it is known in the proceedings—it is pretty clear that neither McGarrahan nor the New Idria Mining Company has any legal right to it the original grant in the one case being a forgery, and in the other case miners have no right to squat on lands covered by a claim. The equity of the case, however, is with McGarrahan for he bought in good faith a claim adjudicated on and passed by the United States District Court after all proper formalities. The property really belongs to the government of the United States, and the proper disposition to make of the whole matter is for the government to quiet the claimants and take possession of the land to dispose of it afterwards as may be deemed best.

It is said that one of the favorite schemes of diplomatists in London in connection with the present war, is to induce Prussia to take Luxemburg instead of Alsace, France paying the purchase money to the King of Holland. But a considerable objection to this combination is that Luxembourgeois do not at all want to be sold.

Yesterday and to-day our business houses have been engaged in making their regular monthly settlements. We find that there is less complaint than usual about failures to pay bills promptly. Money is certainly in better supply than during last year and the early part of the present. Wholesale dealers represent that their country collections are also effected more promptly than during the previous months of the year.

During the month of November the wholesale and jobbing trade of the city was perhaps larger than during the corresponding period of any former year. The last week of the month, however witnessed a considerable falling off in consequence of the closing of navigation on the Upper Columbia, and the prevailing low stage of water in the Willamette river. Very few sales were made to points beyond Salem. For the winter months the solo reliance of our merchants must be upon the Willamette valley but the growth of the country has been such as to render it certain that the demand for goods in the interior must be in great excess of former winters and dealers are confidently anticipating an increase and the commencement of a fair business as soon as the stage of water in the river shall enable the boats to reach lead upon points in the upper part of the valley.

It will be observed that our tables of quotations show an advance in a number of the leading produce staples. Flour is firm at an advance of 50c per bbl on standard extra brands. Wheat is in good demand at an advance of 5c per bushel and with an upward tendency. Oats are also higher and in demand. With the single exception of potatoes, the receipts of produce are light and prices are probably firmer on account of scarcity than they would be if navigation were easy and receipts large.
